

Your roast.

example-saas.com - 5 things to fix first.

6.4 / 10

Room to grow.
27 findings inside.

What we would fix first

Five findings from the audit, ordered by impact. The full action list is on page 2.

- HIGH IMPACT

Your headline tells, it doesn't show.

"All-in-one platform for teams" is feature-led and vague. In the first 3 seconds, visitors do not know what problem you solve. Lead with the outcome - "Ship product without weekly status meetings."

C.L.E.A.R. Framework - Concise + Relevant
- HIGH IMPACT

Visibility of system status is weak.

Form submissions do not confirm success or failure. Users click "Sign up" and wonder if anything happened - common cause of duplicate submissions and drop-off.

Nielsen Heuristic #1 - Visibility of system status
- HIGH IMPACT

Color contrast fails WCAG AA.

Light gray on white (#A8A8A8 on #FFFFFF) is below the 4.5:1 ratio. Users with low vision and anyone reading outdoors on mobile will struggle. Darken to #595959 minimum.

WCAG 2.1 - Accessibility
- MEDIUM

Hero has four competing CTAs.

Sign up, demo, watch video, contact sales - all primary-styled. Pick one. Single-CTA heroes outperform multi-CTA heroes by roughly 17%. Move the rest below the fold.

C.L.E.A.R. Framework - Lucid
- LOW EFFORT WIN

Strong social proof, hidden away.

Customer logos and testimonials sit at the bottom. Move at least one trust signal above the fold - even a single "Trusted by X teams" line reduces first-impression friction.

C.L.E.A.R. Framework - Reassuring

Fix in this order.

Seven actions ranked by impact vs. effort. Start at the top - the wins compound.

1Rewrite the homepage headline*HIGH IMPACT - LOW EFFORT

Lead with the outcome users care about. Test 2-3 variants.

2Surface one trust signal above the fold*HIGH IMPACT - LOW EFFORT

Customer logos or a testimonial - already designed, just move it.

3Fix WCAG AA color contrast violations*HIGH IMPACT - LOW EFFORT

Darken body gray from #A8A8A8 to #595959. ~30 minutes of CSS.

4Add inline form confirmation states*HIGH IMPACT - MEDIUM EFFORT

Replace silent submission with a success state and clear next step.

5Cut the hero to one primary CTA*MEDIUM IMPACT - LOW EFFORT

Keep "Start free trial"; move others below the fold.

6Standardize the spacing scale*MEDIUM IMPACT - MEDIUM EFFORT

Lock to a 4- or 8-base spacing token across all components.

7Rewrite the generic CTA labels*MEDIUM IMPACT - LOW EFFORT

"Submit" -> "Send my request", etc. Specific verbs lift CTR 15-25%.

A note before you go.

These are the things we would fix first - not gospel, just the start of a conversation. Got a question on any finding? Reply to the email this came in. One round of clarifying questions is included, on the house. If a finding does not land for your business, ignore it - you know your users better than we do. Good luck out there.

- Your senior UX reviewer